PROPERTY CRISIS ENTERS NEW PHASE

Police in Shenzhen said actions were taken recently

BLOOMBERG September 17

AUTHORITIES CHINESE DETAINED some staff of China Evergrande Group's money management business, a sign that the saga around the defaulted developer at the heart of the nation's property crisis has entered a new phase involving the criminal justice system.

Police in the southern city of Shenzhen said the actions were taken "recently" in a statement on social media Saturday night. They only identified one of the detainees by the last name Du. No charges were disclosed and the statement didn't say how many people were in custody. Evergrande Financial Wealth Management based in Shenzhen, is a wholly-owned Evergrande unit established in 2015. The firm's general manager is Du Liang, according to his Linkedin profile. Bloomberg News wasn't able to verify that he is among the detainees. Evergrande sits at the center of a credit crisis that has rippled through China's real estate sector and curtailed growth in the world's secondlargest economy. The debtladen developer has offloaded a range of assets, including trophy land parcels and stakes in other financial institutions. Evergrande missed payments on 40 billion yuan ($5.6 billion) of wealth management products in 2021, sparking nationwide demonstrations and putting pressure on Beijing to find a solution to avoid further unrest. More than 70,000 people had bought the products, including many Evergrande employees, as the cash-strapped developer tapped them for funding.

The money management arm of Evergrande said August 31 that it couldn't make payments due on investment products because of a liquidity crunch. Police said Saturday

Trudeau takes aim at corporate sector

PRIME MINISTER JUSTIN Trudeau's proposed reforms to competition law are being welcomed by some advocates as a step toward making Canada's corporate sector more competitive. Whether his move will quell voters' frustration about prices is another matter.

Trudeau pledged on Thursday to give the Competition Bureau more power to force companies to hand over information for investigations, and to act against firms that are trying to co-operate with each other in ways that "stifle competition and consumer choice." It's a response to months of sinking poll numbers that show many Canadians blame the government for inflation.

Industry Minister François-Philippe Champagne called grocery executives to Ottawa for a meeting on Monday, where he'll demand a plan for curbing food inflation by October 9 under the threat of unspecified tax measures if they don't. The government also plans to change the law to eliminate a clause that, in rare circumstances, has allowed companies to push through mergers that harmful were to competition.

"These are positive steps," said Keldon Bester, a former Competition Bureau adviser who now leads the Canadian Anti-Monopoly Project. "We're not going to wake up tomorrow to a capitalist paradise, but these are important fixes to some of the problems that have been in our law for a long time."

The grocery industry has become a political target in Canada because of elevated food inflation — made worse in some cases by a weaker Canadian dollar, which drives up the cost of imported US goods. Canada has three large national grocers — Loblaw, Empire and Metro — that compete with Walmart Inc. and regional chains. "Most people just don't trust food companies," said Sylvain Charlebois, a food professor at Dalhousie University, who will take part in Monday's meeting. "According to one of our recent surveys, 82% of Canadians believe that the investigation into the wealth management unit is ongoing and called on investors to provide leads to the authorities, including fil-

going the country's biggest restructuring ever, and the protracted process remains in limbo as key votes on its offshore-debt revamp plan were The latest development

France to allow selling fuel at loss to curb inflation

THE FRENCH GOVERNMENT plans to allow gas stations to sell fuel at a loss, overriding a law from 1963, as it struggles to find new ways of containing inflation without adding to vast sums of public money already spent. Prime Minister Elisabeth Borne said in an interview with Le Parisien that the lawwould be suspended for a limited period of a "few months." Such a move would in theory allow greater competition between distributors, who could cut prices below costs and aim to make up lost margin with sales of other products and services.

"With this unprecedented measure, we will get tangible results for French people without subsidizing fuel,"Borne said. She ruled out the government political issue in France, where on TotalEnergies SE to cap the an increase in levies in 2018 sparked the Yellow Vest movement that spiraled into months of protests over living standards. While inflation has eased since the spring, energy costs pushed the rate back up last month. With prices at the pump rising in recent weeks following finance ministry already leaned cost of gasoline and diesel. Last year, the government directly subsidized fuel costs for households at a huge cost to public finances. Finance Minister Bruno Le Maire said earlier in September that reintroducing such measures would be an ecological, fiscal and diplomatic "aberration."

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA Washington, September 17

DESCRIBING THE H-1B visa

programme as a form of "indentured servitude", Indian-American Republican presidential aspirant Vivek Ramaswamy has vowed to "gut" the lottery-based system and replace it with meritocratic admission if he wins the race to the White House in 2024.

The H-1B visa, much sought-after among Indian IT professionals, is a non-immigrant visa that allows US companies to employ foreign workers in speciality occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise.

Technology companies depend on it to hire tens of thousands of employees each year from countries like India and China.

Ramaswamy himself has used the H-1B visa programme 29 times. From 2018 through 2023, US Citizenship and Immigration Services approved 29 applications for Ramaswamy's former company, Roivant Sciences, to hire employees under H-1B visas, the Politico reported.

Yet, the H-1B system is "bad for everyone involved," the 38-year-old biotech entrepreneur was quoted as saying by Politico.

The lottery system needs to be replaced by actual meritocratic admission. It's a form of indentured servitude that only accrues to the benefit of the company that sponsored an H-1B immigrant. I'll gut it VIVEK RAMASWAMY, INDIAN-AMERICAN REPUBLICAN

"The lottery system needs to be replaced by actual meritocratic admission. It's a form of indentured servitude that only accrues to the benefit of the company that sponsored an H-1B immigrant. I'll gut it," Ramaswamy said in a statement, adding that the US needs to eliminate chain-match in the Republican presidential hopeful's policy stance and his past business practices, his press secretary Tricia McLaughlin said the role of a policymaker "is to do what's right for a country overall: the system is broken and needs to be fixed."

"Vivek believes that regulations overseeing the US energy sector are badly broken, but he still uses water and electricity," she said in a statement.

"This is the same." Ramaswamy, who is himself the child of immigrants, has captured headlines for his restrictionist immigration campaign, when then-candidate Donald Trump, who has also hired a number of foreign workers under H-1B visas for his businesses, took a hardline stance on these foreign workers before later softening his rhetoric.
